

northern colorado

Posted by N7VDR - 25 Dec 2010 10:39

Any one else in no. Co. Using a hp-1 ? I'm in fort collins.

=====

Re:northern colorado

Posted by Starlight77 - 02 Aug 2011 21:16

Hi, My name is Mark ...I just joined this forum this evening. I live in Northern Colo. and just recently purchased a Home Patrol Unit: 1. I will need some help from either you /or someone who can tell me ... when I charge the batteries, my HP-1 gets hot ... case and all is this normal ? Thanks, and have a good evening. Mark

=====

Re:northern colorado

Posted by rkydenver - 03 Aug 2011 11:49

Welcome to the Colorado forum, usually on charging the batteries in the unit some reports are that the unit does get hot(just be around the unit for charging, and also in the RR forum at Uniden someone reported that there HP-1 almost caught fire. Usually a external charger is recommeded, every time i used my HP-1 and plug it in i say no to recharge the batterys, if do recharge i stay with it.

=====

Re:northern colorado

Posted by Starlight77 - 03 Aug 2011 18:50

Thanks, for your advice Re; charging batteries in the unit. I will take your advice and refrain from using The HP-1 to charge them. Can you tell me which external charger is a good one to purchase ?

=====

Re:northern colorado

Posted by rkydenver - 04 Aug 2011 00:54

http://www.thomasdistributing.com/La-Crosse-LC-BC700-AA-and-AAA-Battery-Charger-with-LCD-Display_p_907.html Thanks, for your advice Re; charging batteries in the unit. I will take your advice and refrain from using The HP-1 to charge them. Can you tell me which external charger is a good one to purchase ? I use the LaCross charger from Thomas Distributing seems to work really well.

=====
Re: northern colorado

Posted by N7VDR - 29 Sep 2012 15:00

i've charged mine in the unit from day 1 with no over heating issues.

=====