

Main database Editor?

Posted by ARC PATROL - 01 Sep 2011 12:34

---

Is there any interest for a main database editor option in ArcPatrol so you can set/modify delay time and alerts of the main database?

The only disadvantage is that these settings are lost when updating the database.

Gommert

www.butelsoftware.com

=====

Re:Main database Editor?

Posted by jcase469 - 02 Sep 2011 10:36

---

Yes, I'd be interested in a main database editor.

I tend to only update the main database when there are actually updates for my area, which doesn't happen very often usually.

ARC PATROL wrote:

Is there any interest for a main database editor option in ArcPatrol so you can set/modify delay time and alerts of the main database?

The only disadvantage is that these settings are lost when updating the database.

Gommert

www.butelsoftware.com

=====

Re:Main database Editor?

Posted by LEP - 02 Sep 2011 12:22

---

I have no personal interest in such a feature as my focus is mostly on my FAVE lists for my local area. Often any new data from the main database for my area came from me in the first place.

LEP

=====

Re:Main database Editor?

Posted by n9mfk - 26 Sep 2011 16:04

---

I wood Like very much to have a Main database Editor

there have been times were i could not use a fav list an there no way to edit the database

Thanks Beau

=====

Re:Main database Editor?

Posted by spec5 - 26 Sep 2011 16:22

---

If you could edit the Main Database wouldn't you then loose anything you edited the next time you updated the Main Database? BTW the answer is yes like Gommert says. I see such an endeavor as an exercise in futility. That is my two cents. So I wood/would not.

=====

Re: Main database Editor?

Posted by magicjellybeans - 29 Nov 2011 14:28

---

Yes

=====